Read the following passage and answer the questions given after it.

Grandfather had served for many years in the Indian Forest Service and so it was natural that he should know and understand and love trees. On his retirement he had a bungalow built on the outskirts of Dehra and he planted trees all around it – limes, oranges, mangoes, guavas, also eucalyptus and jacaranda. Dehra lies in a valley at the foothills of Himalayas, a fertile valley where plants and trees grow tall and strong.

However, Grandfather was not content with planting trees in our garden. On rainy day we would walk into a jungle beyond the river bed, with cuttings and saplings, and we would wander slowly through the forest planting shrubs between the 'sal' and 'shisham' trees.

"But no one comes here," I protested the first time. "Who is going to see them?"

"We are not planting them for people only," said Grandfather. "We are planting them for the forest, and for the birds and animals that live here and need more food and shelter."

He told me how men, and not only birds and animals, need trees, for keeping the desert away, for attracting rain, and for preventing the banks of rivers from being washed away.

"And for timber?" I asked.

"Yes, and for timber also. But men are cutting trees. For every tree that is cut down, we must plant two. Otherwise there will be no forest at all one day, and the world will become one great desert."

One November Grandfather took me to the hills. The 'deodars', oaks and chestnuts were very different from the trees at Dehra. The leaves of chestnuts had turned yellow. Chestnuts lay scattered on the road. Grandfather and I filled our pockets with them, then we climbed a bare hill and started planting the chestnuts in the ground. I don't know if they ever came up because I never went to that hill station again.

Goats and cattle grazed freely on the hill, and if the chestnuts did come up in the spring that may well have been eaten. But I like to think that somewhere in the hills there is a grove of chestnut trees, and the birds and flying foxes have made their homes in it.

निम्नलिखित लेख पढ़ें और इसके बाद दिये गये प्रश्नों के उत्तर दें।

दादाजी ने भारतीय वन सेवा में कई वर्षों तक अपनी सेवाएं दी थीं और इसलिए उनका वह पेड़ के प्रति प्यार और समझ स्वाभाविक थी। उन्होंने अपनी सेवानिवृत्ति के बाद देहरा के बाहरी इलाके में एक बंगला बनाया था और इसके आसपास भांति भांति के पेड़ उगाये थे जिसमें नीब्, संतरा, आम, अमरूद, नीलगिरी और जकारंदा आदि शामिल थे। देहरा हिमालय की तलहटी में एक घाटी में स्थित है, यह एक उपजाऊ घाटी है जहां पौधे व पेड़ लंबे और मजबूत होते हैं।

हालांकि, दादाजी के पास हमारे बगीचे में पाँधे लगाने के लिए सामग्री नहीं थी। बरसात के दिन हम कलमों और अंकुरों के साथ नदी के तल से परे एक जंगल में जायेंगें, और 'साल' और 'शीशम के पेड़ के बीच स्थित जंगली झाड़ियों के बीच घूमेंगे।

"लेकिन यहां कोई नहीं आता है," मैंने पहली बार में ही आपत्ति की।

"तो उन्हें कौन देखने जा रहा है?"

"हम उनका रोपण केवल लोगों के लिए नहीं कर रहे हैं," दादाजी ने कहा। "हम उनका रोपण वनों और पक्षियों व जानवरों के लिए कर रहे हैं जो यहाँ रहते हैं तथा जिन्हें अधिक भोजन और आश्रय की जरूरत है।" उसने मुझे बताया कि कैसे केवल पक्षियों और जानवरों को ही नहीं, मानव को भी वृक्षों की आवश्यकता सूखे को दूर रखने के लिए, वर्षा लाने के लिए और नदी के किनारों को बहने से रोकने के लिए होती है।

"और तकड़ी के लिए?" मैनें पूछा।

"हाँ, और लकड़ी के लिए भी। परन्तु मानव पेड़ काट रहे हैं। प्रत्येक पेड़ जो काटा जाता है, के स्थान पर हमें दो पेड़ लगाने चाहिए। अन्यथा एक दिन यहाँ पर कोई भी वन न रहेगा और दुनिया एक विशाल रेगिस्तान बन जाएगी।"

एक नवंबर को दादाजी मुझे पहाड़ियों पर ले गये। 'देवदार', बॉज और चेस्टनट के पेड़ देहरा के पेड़ों से बहुत अलग थे। चेस्टनट के पत्ते पीले हो गये थे। चेस्टनट सड़क पर बिखरे हुए थे। दादाजी और मैंने अपनी जेब उनसे भर ली, फिर हम एक वृक्षहीन पहाड़ी पर चढ़ गए और भूमि में चेस्टनट का रोपण शुरू कर दिया। मुझे नहीं पता कि वे उगे होंगे भी या नहीं क्योंकि मैं दोबारा कभी उस हिल स्टेशन पर नहीं गया। बकरियां और बछड़े पहाड़ी पर स्वतंत्र रूप से चरते हैं, और यदि बसंत में चेस्टनट उगे भी होंगे तो वे चर लिये गये होंगे। लेकिन मुझे लगता है कि पहाड़ियों में कहीं पर चेस्टनट पेड़ों का एक उपवन होगा और पक्षी व चमगादड़ों के घर वहां होंगे।

It is easy to pigeonhole the President of India as an office for formal rites, with no substantive role in running the country. When the office is occupied by as keen a politician as the present incumbent, ritual often gives way to real intervention. The Republic Day-eve address of the President has served up more than platitudes. President Pranab Mukherjee has called upon the citizens to complain, demand and rebel, apart from excoriating terror and calling upon the Opposition and ruling sides to reach accommodation on passing vital laws that the country needs. This is sensible and timely advice delivered at a statesmanly remove from the partisan battlefield that Indian politics has become. The two countries have called for the early conclusion of the negotiations and adoption of an international legal framework under UN auspices, the Comprehensive Convention on International Terrorism. The focus on maritime security in the Indian Ocean is another facet of the effort by the two countries to work together to counter terrorism. France has reiterated its support for a permanent UN Security Council seat for India, and New Delhi's accession to multilateral export control regimes. The President did well to underline the message that dissent is democracy. This is a much-needed corrective to the notion that privileges order and discipline over other aspects of collective existence and automatically rules non-acquiescence to authority as treason. By calling upon his citizens to not just complain but also to rebel, President Mukherjee trashes this view of politics and condemns intolerance of difference. Pliant conformity, in fact, kills innovation, without even guaranteeing perpetuation of the status quo, as one has to run just to keep one's place in a world on the move. Does articulation of this view pit him in opposition to the present government, some of whose supporters have, indeed, been intolerant of any criticism of intolerance? Not really. After President Mukherjee spoke up after the killing of a man at Dadri over beef, the prime minister thought it fit to use that statement to present his own reaction. The President did well to brand terrorism as pure evil, refusing to differentiate terror into good and bad. He endorsed dialogue as the way to resolve differences, but not unconditionally. Dialogue should ideally be continual, he said, but cannot take place under a shower of bullets. This should not, however, make way for the opponents of dialogue to sabotage it by the simple expedient of spraying bullets whenever peace threatens to break out.
